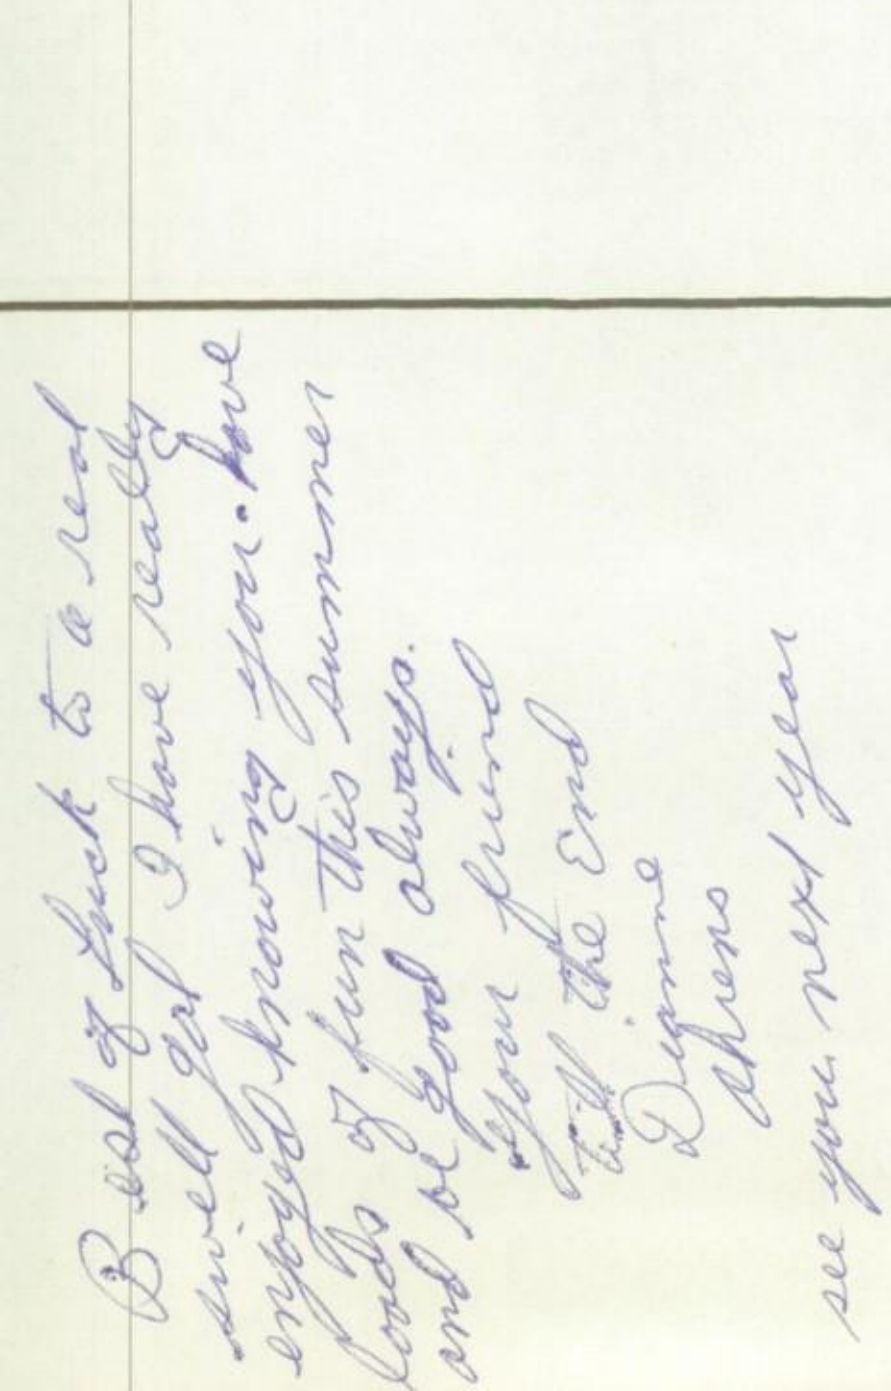
Introduction

"Suppose it were perfectly certain that the life and fortune of every one of us would, one day or other, depend upon his winning or losing a game of chess. Don't you think that we should all consider it to be a primary duty to learn at least the names and the moves of the pieces; to have a notion of a gambit, and a keen eye for all the means of giving and getting out of check? Do you not think that we should look with disapprobation amounting to scorn, upon the father who allowed his son, or the state which allowed its members, to grow up without knowing a pawn from a knight?

Yet it is a very plain and elementary truth, that the life, the fortune, and the happiness of every one of us, and, more or less, of those who are connected with us, do depend upon our knowing something of the rules of a game infinitely more difficult and complicated than chess. It is a game which has been played for untold ages, every man and woman of us being one of the two players in a game of his or her own. The chessboard is the world, the pieces are the phenomena of the universe, the rules of the game are what we call the laws of Nature. The player on the other side is hidden from us. We know that his play is always fair, just, and patient. But also we know, to our cost, that he never overlooks a mistake, or makes the smallest allowance for ignorance. To the man who plays well, the highest stakes are paid, with that sort of overflowing generosity with which the strong shows delight in strength. And one who plays ill is checkmated—without haste, but without remorse."

—Thomas Henry Huxley



Miss Susan Perrin—Senior Counselor

Dedication

We, the students of Central High School, dedicate our 1960 Yearbook, the Centralia, to Miss Sue Perrin, in grateful recognition of the years she has dedicated to us.

Many of us, as Seniors, have learned that we need look no farther than Room 335 for all the guidance and counsel necessary to complete our high school careers and to begin new ones. She is playing a most vital role in our lives, and playing it well.

And so, we hope that she will consider this dedication a vote of confidence, and a vote of thanks,—most sincerely extended. The best of everything always to Miss Sue Perrin!

Members of the Bay City Board of Education contribute their services to the Bay City Public Schools. For their untiring efforts to promote the welfare of all students in the Bay City Public School system, we say, "Thank you."

Our Superintendent, hired by the Board of Education, is the head of our school system, one which has become known throughout the state and nation as an outstanding school system.

English Department

Miss Wyneken—Head of English Department

Since it is true that effectiveness in life often depends upon the ability to communicate with others, English is of prime importance in the high school curriculum.

The first goal of the department is to give its students a good command of the language because this is essential for competence in any vocation. The skills and habits learned in this course will be of great value throughout life.

The second aim in the teaching of English concerns personal development and happiness apart from the job. Through the study of literature, the student gains an understanding and appreciation of life itself. The department believes this is essential to the education of a well-rounded person. To accomplish this, it is necessary to acquire proficiency in the skills of reading and to develop an appreciation for good literature.

The Finger of Suspicion

Language Department

A concentrated study of a foreign language is worthwhile for many reasons. The study habits developed are good for mental discipline and memory exercise. Learning the processes of speech from a foreign country is quite important for the eventual understanding of the processes of thought of this people.

Proficiency in a foreign language is required for many occupations which are growing in popularity today: foreign service; exchange teaching; some engineering positions, etc. And, equally important, there is little which contributes more to the broadening of character in a student than the ability to read and speak a language other than his own.

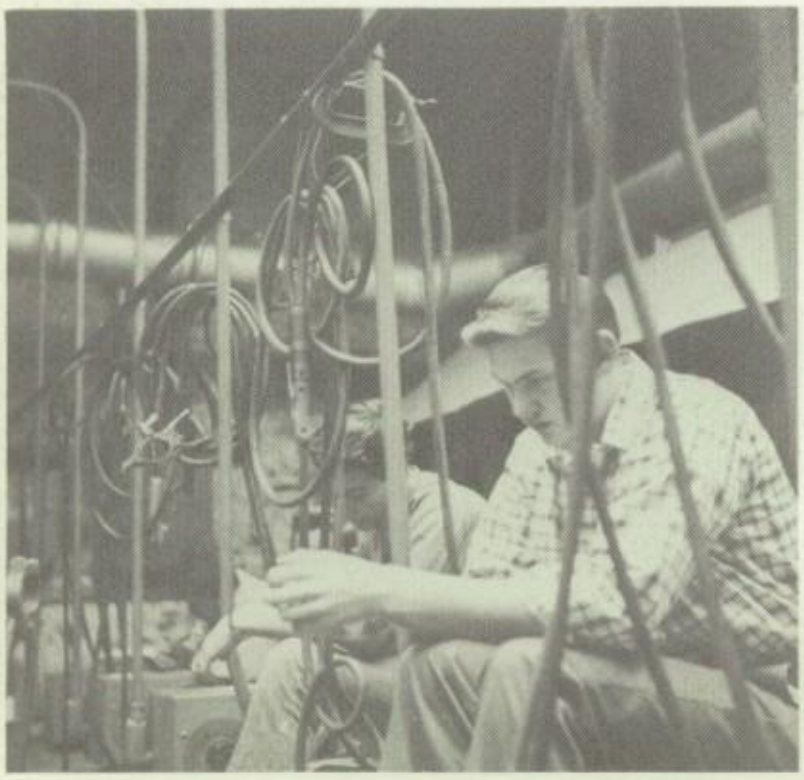
Vocational Department

Mr. Duch—Head of the Vocational Department

Mr. Franek, Mr. Krause, Mr. Montgomery,
Mr. Klein, Mr. Cody, Mr. Willoughby

The Vocational Department at Central is divided into two groups: Industrial Arts and Day Trade. The Industrial Arts classes are open to both boys and girls and are devoted more to exploration and general knowledge than to skills of trade.

Under the Day Trade plan, boys only are offered more specialized curriculum with the emphasis placed upon development of skill. These skills prepare a boy for his future occupation.



The Spaghetti Department

Home Economics

Miss Lillich greets her class

Mrs. Purgraski demonstrates flower arranging as a facet of Homemaking

Years ago, the Homemaking Department concentrated almost entirely upon sewing and cooking. But today, because of the changing times, a girl can study interior decoration, child care, consumer buying, grooming and personality, figure control, handi-crafts, dietetics, home and family living—and cover cooking and sewing thoroughly, too.

Because the average girl becomes a wife and mother eventually, and because many mothers carry outside jobs leaving home responsibility to their daughters, the Homemaking Department believes that its course is beneficial to any girl regardless of her academic plans.

Mrs. Purgraski and Miss Lillich examining new material

Business Education Department

Mr. Jacobs—Head of the Business Education Department

The main objective of the Business Education Department is to provide the student with an understanding of basic economic areas. He learns to make sound decisions, and to perform many necessary functions correctly. Some of these are borrowing money, giving credit, buying insurance, and paying taxes.

In short, the student is given a chance to become successful in business, and as a citizen.

Special skills are offered to further this end. They are typing, shorthand, and general office work.

Mr. Eidt demonstrates the revolutionary hunt-and-peck method

Maybe I'd be better at shorthand.

Miss MacDonald "counts noses".

Mr. Steringer teaches "squiggles."

Mrs. Gustin corrects a student's paper.

Mr. Norris is having a good day.

Music Department

Mr. Cramer and Mr. Campbell

Our Band Bounce Bosses

Mr. Cady

The main objective of the Music Department is to help the student develop an appreciation of good music.

This department believes that students who participate in the music program tend to lead richer lives because of their musical experience.

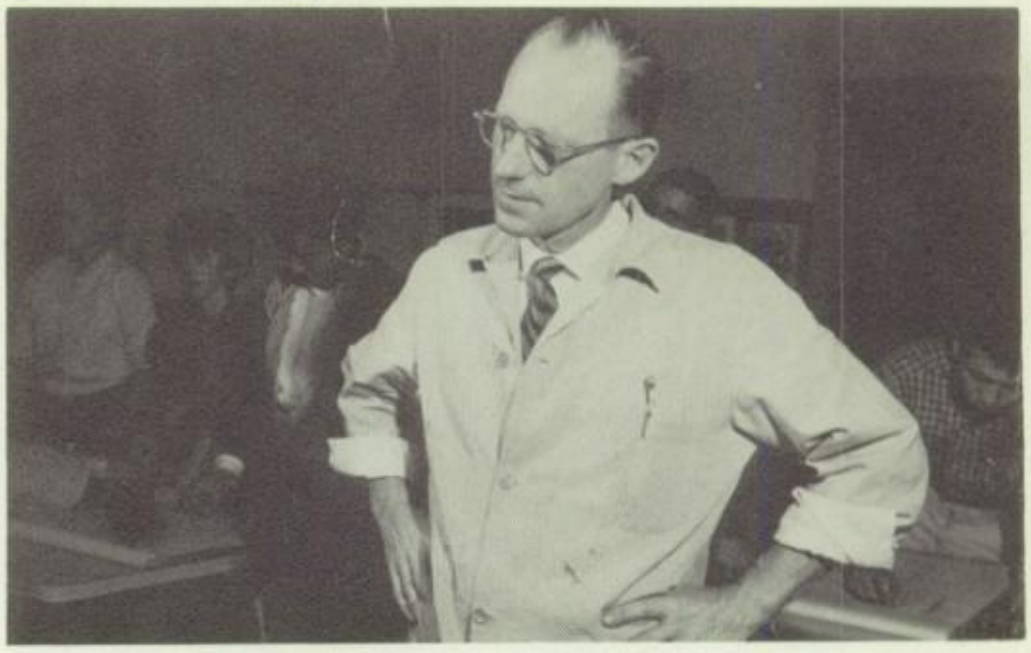
The school orchestra of over fifty musicians performs at various school functions: the Christmas Assembly, the operetta, the Festival of Music, Parents' Night, the exchange assemblies, and, of course, Band Bounce.

Central's Band, particularly in the marching season, contributes much to the character development of the student. He learns to be loyal, reliable, punctual, and responsible. He works hard to develop co-ordination and stamina.

The vocal department helps to improve the speaking voice besides giving the student the opportunity to study singing and music.

The A Cappella choir and the band also participate in the different programs sponsored by Central.

Art Department

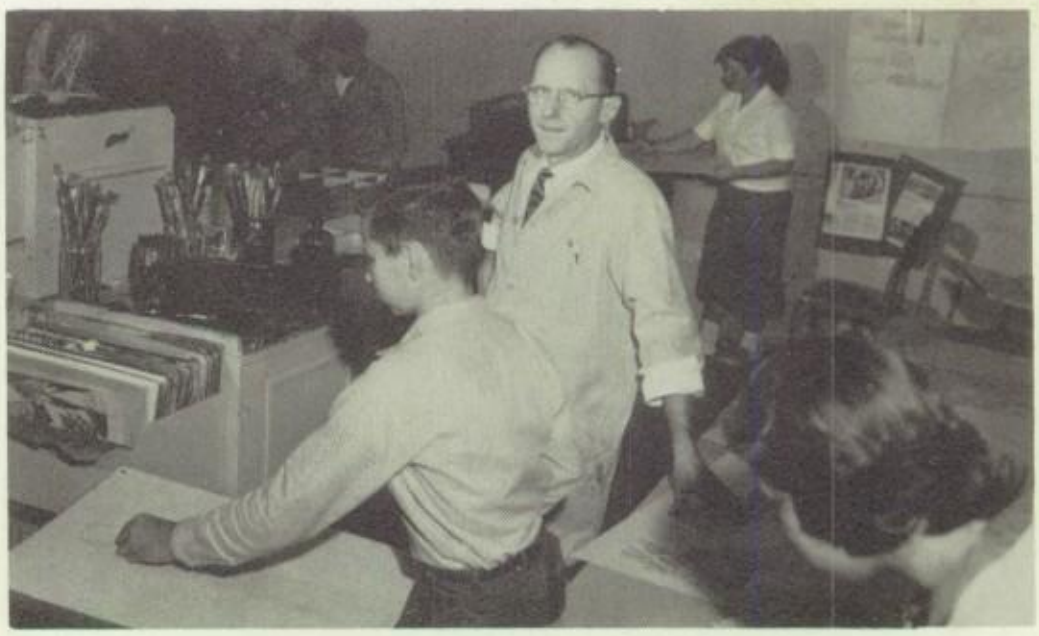


Mr. Wright is doubtful.

Central High School offers art study on an elective basis. The first year of art can be elected at any grade level. Students who take advantage of all four years of art are generally serious about furthering their studies professionally or in college.

Art instruction develops a love of beauty and design. The Art Department believes art experiences are important to all students, not only the ones who seem to have the natural aptitude for it.

Mr. Graham improves his mind.



Mr. Wright is very doubtful!

Science Department

Mr. Heemstra - Head of the Science Department

Science is derived from the Latin word "scio", to know. This is why the Science Department is directed at the discovery and proof of actual facts based upon previously proven material. The sciences are very precise and detailed studies.

General science, biology, physics, and chemistry are available each year to the students. We are also offered laboratory space and equipment besides expert instruction.

Mr. Ulrich, biology

Mr. Engel, biology

Mr. Drummond and Mr. Toyzan, Chemistry

"Old Mac Engel had a farm . . . . . "

"Simply fascinating."

Mr. Leikert, Biology

Mr. Morey, General Science

Social Science Department

Mr. Saunders—Head of the Social Science Department

The Social Sciences are dedicated to studying the basic principles of Americanism. Students are taught to understand the development of democracy, and the various other social, economic, and political systems prevalent in the world today. They learn to read comprehensively, to listen to radio and television, to discuss world problems, and to always be informed about current events.

In short, the Social Sciences contribute a great deal to furthering the American Way, and to widening our horizons.

Mathematics Department

Mr. Hewitt—Head of the Mathematics Department

Our Mathematics Department offers a very complete course including all the phases of math necessary for future college study.

Four years of college preparatory math is available: algebra, geometry, advanced algebra, and trigonometry or solid geometry. These courses correspond with the four years of high school.

General mathematics in the ninth grade followed by vocational and business math is provided for the non-college student desiring technical training.

For students who have shown early and exceptional mathematical ability an enriched course is offered. This is an attempt to keep the superior math student interested until more advanced curriculum and books are in effect.

Mr. Remington and Mr. Bailey

Physical Educational Department

Physical Education contributes much to the physical, emotional, and biological aspects of the student's total education.

The Physical Education program here at Central is aimed at giving students the opportunity to develop excellent physical fitness. There are several additional advantages, however. A physical education student increases his muscular strength, stamina, and endurance. He learns a variety of skills, and if he excells at one, he may be permitted to join a team. Belonging to a team gives him the democratic philosophy which is so important in good sportsmanship.

Agathos

Agathos is the name of Central's branch of the National Honor Society for superior students. Members are chosen by an advisory board on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and service.

Agathos has assumed responsibility for the following services:

1. Mailing Christmas cards to graduate students in the first and third years following their graduation in an attempt to evaluate their high school education. On the card, which they are asked to return, are questions like a) What courses did you find helped you the most? b) What are you doing now?

2. At the end of each marking period in the school year's first semester, names of freshmen appearing on the honor roll are compiled for each of the schools on the East Side, or in some cases schools from the West Side who furnished freshmen to Central. These lists are then mailed to the school to keep the school posted on the academic achievements of their pupils. This is also done for the semester honor roll list and is usually made up before the list is released to the newspapers.

The club meets once a month and at that time does the tedious task of addressing the birthday cards. A special committee appointed for the purpose, takes care of the honor roll list.

The high point of the year is the annual Agathos honor assembly, held in May of each year, when the club members, as well as the new Juniors, are introduced to the school. The club is only open to Juniors and Seniors, with selection coming in the spring of the senior year.

Ecclesia is an honor society open to girls who have shown exceptional ability in academic subjects, emphasizing English.

A tea is given in September of each year for members who have been chosen the preceding spring. During Homecoming, the members present the queen with a scrapbook of the football season. Each Queen's Court representative is given a small football autographed by the players.

At Thanksgiving the Club makes a present of a basket of food to a needy family. At Christmas the members exchange gifts. Ecclesia sponsors an informal school dance, a potluck for members, and a banquet with the Central Citizenship Club.

At each meeting of the Club, an English program (book review, play reading etc.) is planned. Scholarships are offered to one or more members enrolling in Junior College.

Debate

Debate is a pro and con argument conducted under a definite, clear-cut set of rules. The techniques of debating are essential tools for active participation in a democracy. These techniques are invaluable for all kinds of speech-making and recitation. A student learns how and where to find material to support a contention. He learns valuable habits of study and research that immensely improve his chances of success in any field. He learns to organize clearly and become an acute and critical listener. He learns to reason closely and carefully. Most important of all perhaps, he comes to see that there are sound arguments to be offered on both sides of any important question. All these techniques and habits, and the resulting broadminded attitude, are of great importance to the student's general education.

Student Goverment

Vice-President Dick Peterson
President Ken Warren

Throughout the year, the Student Government plays a large part in the student activities at Central.

Every spring excitement spreads through the halls before the final election of the President and Vice-President. Bright posters, amusing and informative announcements, and a campaign assembly precede the final walk to the polls.

Many student activities are sponsored by the Student Government. In the fall the "Kickoff" dance is held in honor of the incoming Freshmen. And, during the football season, the Homecoming ceremonies are highlighted. Under the direction of the combined Student Governments of Central and Handy, the annual Holiday Prom is presented, featuring a famous band.

The Student Government also maintains order in the congested halls and cafeteria line. Many projects, such as the Goodfellows' paper sale and this year's flag project, are sponsored by this group.

ESTEL "ZIT" TESSMER,

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

When he moved to his new office across the street, last February 29, the Bay City Board of Education gained what Central lost, one of its most able administrators in the school's long and storied history.

Four days after his fiftieth birthday, Estel "Zit" Tessmer stepped up from his position as athletic director at Central High and assumed new duties as citywide athletic director.

Tessmer was born on February 25, 1910, in the university city of Ann Arbor. After attending Ann Arbor High school where he was an all-sports standout, he matriculated to the University of Michigan, where he continued to display his athletic prowess.

As a standout football player, he became one of the first recipients of the Morton Trophy in the spring of 1930, given annually to the most improved Wolverine in spring practice. Following three years on the Michigan varsity as a quarterback, Tessmer was accorded the honor of being named the most valuable player on his team by the Chicago Tribune.

After graduation in June, 1933, Tessmer entered the coaching profession, and his last position before World War II was at Hillsdale High School.

During the war years, he attained the Naval rank of lieutenant, and was placed in charge of physical education training at two of the largest naval bases in the country.

Following his discharge in 1945, Tessmer accepted the coaching challenge at Bay City Central. And it was just that too, for the war and other factors had joined to cause a general downgrading of athletics at Bay City.

His first season at Central was 1946-47; he began as football backfield coach, head basketball coach, and head tennis mentor.

He continued in this capacity for two seasons until the fall of 1948, when another coaching upheaval thrust him into the athletic directorship of the Wolves den, a duty fulfilled until last February.

Despite the added responsibility of being athletic director, Tessmer continued as coach in the three varsity sports. His basketball teams, while never winning a Saginaw Valley Conference title, did cop two regional crowns, and staged a memorable running series with Saginaw Arthur Hill on the hardcourts through the early 50's.

Added administrative duties forced him to give up the basketball job at he close of the 1953-54 season. It was a generous gesture for him to step down then, for he knew that his next year's club would be one of his best. He chose instead to let the new coach, Art Paddy, start on firm footing.

He continued as backfield coach until the fall of 1958, and his tennis teams dominated the Conference for many years. From 1954 to 1958, Tessmer-coached net squads ran up a string of five straight loop titles.

As an athletic administrator, Tessmer played a large part in the formation of the Central Sports Club, now recognized as one of the finest organizations of its kind in the state. It now sells around 1,700 football season tickets annually, besides being the top booster of the high school's athletic program.

Also, Tessmer played a key role in establishing wrestling as the ninth varsity sport here six years ago.

When he assumed the athletic directorship, the Flint Conference schools, Central and Northern, had controlled the Valley's scheduling to the point where it was a distinct disadvantage to the other member schools. Tessmer fought for, and finally gained, a schedule which is now more balanced and which rotates in part every several seasons.

The Saginaw Valley Conference will be a nine-team organization in all varsity sports beginning in the fall of 1961, and a share of the credit here, too, must go to Tessmer. One of his last duties was to do the lion's share of the work drawing up the unwieldy schedules in the various varsity sports.

As citywide athletic director, Tessmer's duties will be to co-ordinate the athletic activities of all the city's public schools, elementary and secondary. This will include expansion of the present physical education program and an increasing of the intramural program at the individual schools.

It is definitely a step upwards for the man who has led Central into a position of prominence in Michigan athletics.

From the coaching staffs, faculty, and students of Central, past and present—best of luck.

FOOTBALL STORY

Had the 1959 Bay City Central football season been limited to just seven games, everybody except Pontiac and Flint Northern would have been satisfied. After the first seven gridiron contests, the Wolves had increased an undefeated skein to 19 games and appeared headed for a third straight Saginaw Valley Conference title.

But on a bitterly cold night in Pontiac, the upstart Chiefs pulled the upset of the 1959 prep year, defeating Bay City, 12-7, and the following week Flint Northern turned the trick, 19-7. The latter contest was one of the dampest games on record.

Central opened the season with a 60-0 romp over Lapeer and followed with a 34-19 licking of Lansing Sexton. The following week, Handy hosted the first game in the storied rivalry between the local Class A high schools, but location made no difference. Central won that contest, 14-0 although losing first string quarterback, J. C. Dunn, for most of the remainder of the season.

Behind the clutch field leadership of Bob Crampton, Central opened Valley Conference action the following week and blasted Flint Central, 17-0. Arthur Hill led for 44 minutes, but a desperation pass play from Crampton to End Ken Warren pulled the game out of the fire and gave the Wolves their fifth win, 20-18.

Midland (13-0) and Saginaw (14-6) provided wins six and seven before Pontiac and Northern ended the season with their upset wins.

End-tackle Larry Piotrowski was accorded the highest honor ever attained by a Central gridder when he was named to the first-team prep All-American, selected by the Wigwam Wiseman of America. He was the only Wolf given a spot on the first team All-State squads of the various polls, and on the first team All-Valley, had in accompaniment Fullback George Archer and Tackle Dave Sampson.

Cross Country Story

Despite the behemoth efforts of Seniors Dennis Ahler and Bill Dodge, Bay City Central cross-country-men failed to win a dual meet during the 1959 season.

Ahler and Dodge were two of only three letterwinners who returned to Coach Ken Norris last fall, and lack of depth in the third, fourth and fifth slots hurt heavily.

It was a young team, though, with over half of the runners being tenth graders. This would indicate an upturn in the Wolf cross-country fortunes in coming seasons.

High spot of the year as far as Central was concerned came in a dual meet against Flint Northern when Ahler took his lone first place of the season against the strong Viking contingent.

Basketball Story

The Wolf basketball team, wracked by graduation last June, played its heart out last winter, but managed just one win in 15 regular-season starts.

However, Coach Bill Ullenbruch's unit showed good desire and an eagerness to learn something that had been notable by its absence in the past few years.

Central's club was composed mostly of underclassmen, which gives rise to promise of a good season next year. Only Ken Warren will be lost from the starting five.

Warren, a starter two years running, led the team in scoring with a 16-point average, while Junior Forward Bob Crampton was second with 13.

The Wolves improved steadily throughout the year, and in the second Flint Central encounter, avenged a 24-point loss with a tight, 69-67 victory.

In district tournament action in Midland, Central played perhaps its finest game, but lost to a late rush by Arthur Hill, 53-47.

Warren came in for his share of post-season honors, being first-team All-Valley selection, and gaining recognition in the various All-State polls.

WRESTLING

Wrestling Story

On the drab wrestling mats on Pontiac Central one night last February, Bay City Central matmen brought their school its greatest athletic glory of the year when they upset the odds to win the Saginaw Valley Conference wrestling title.

It was the fourth straight crown for the Wolves, who have had possession of the traveling trophy since it was put into circulation.

Winning the Conference title was the high point of the year for Coach Ray Duch's proteges, for during the regular dual meet season the Wolves compiled a so-so record of 5-5-1.

Crowned Valley champions were Bill Dodge at 112, Don Siepke at 120, Chauncey Green at 138, Lonnie Lowery at 145 and Wayne Frieders at 165.

Siepke, Green and Lowery also placed high enough in the regional tournament, along with Jim DeYoung, to qualify for the state finals. In this tourney, Siepke garnered fourth place, the only Wolf to collect points.

Swimming Story

Wolf swimmers enjoyed their best season in seve years under second-year mentor Don Morey this pa winter, winning nine of 14 dual meets. Three of t defeats came in the last weeks of the season agai powerhouses Pontiac, Arthur Hill and Handy, and we by a total of eight points.

The young Central swimmers improved steadi throughout the season, as evidenced by their two-poi losses to the Hillites and Handy, both by 47-49 scor after suffering 34 and 16-point defeats the first tir around.

In the valley meet, the Wolves were shut out fro the winners' circle, but managed a fourth-place finis Diver Jim Marsh, only a sophomore, gave Central i only points in the State meet at the University Michigan by placing fifth.

Diver Jim Marsh, fifth place finisher in the State meet, goes through his paces in a late-season dual meet.

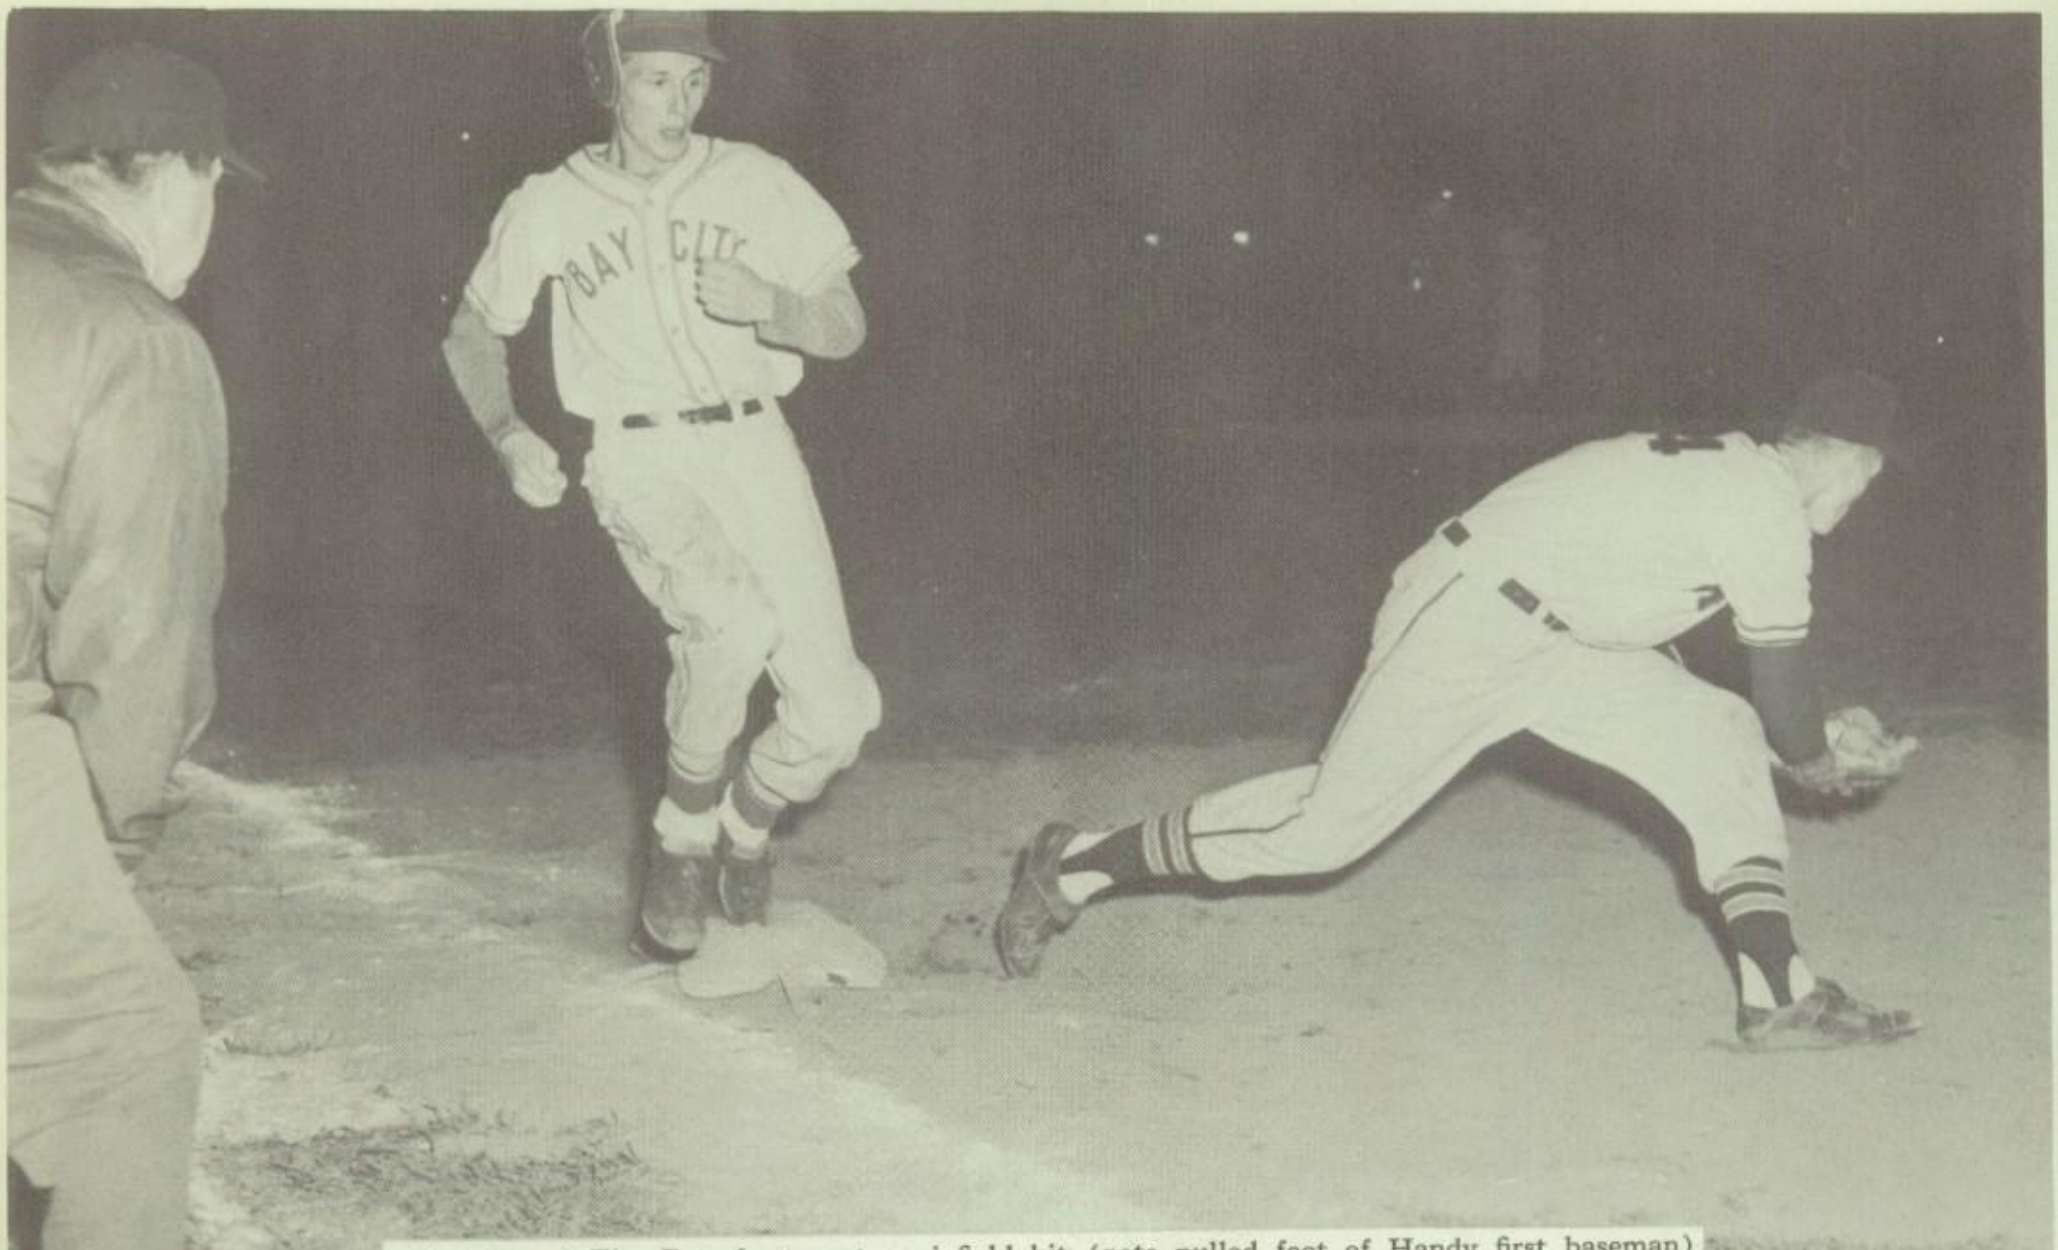
SPRING SPORTS



Fleet-footed Tim Pete beats out an infield hit (note pulled foot of Handy first baseman) in second Wildcat tilt, under the lights at the West Siders' field.

Spring Sports Story

The Central thinclads were the victim of circumstances. In a normal track year, their performances would have been good enough for a winning season, but the spring of 1959 saw one of the greatest schoolboy track performances ever in Michigan. Overall, Coach Ken Loop's runners won two dual meets, one against Handy, and missed by one-half point a victory over Midland and the wildcats in a triangular meet.

The tennis team, hurt by graduation which took its top four singles players, suffered its first losing season in many years, winning only six of 13 dual meets. The golfers improved steadily throughout a soggy season, but won only four meets in 14 tries.

For this first time in several years, the Centralia is going to picture spring sports from the previous year. This has been made necessary because of deadlines which must be met and which prevent time coverage on the sports of the spring in which the yearbook is published.

The 1959 baseball team coached by Elmer Engel was figured to be a strong contender for the Saginaw Valley Conference title, but lost their first three league games and never got untracked. The Wolves finished with five wins and nine losses, but had wins over all the Valley schools except Flint Central.

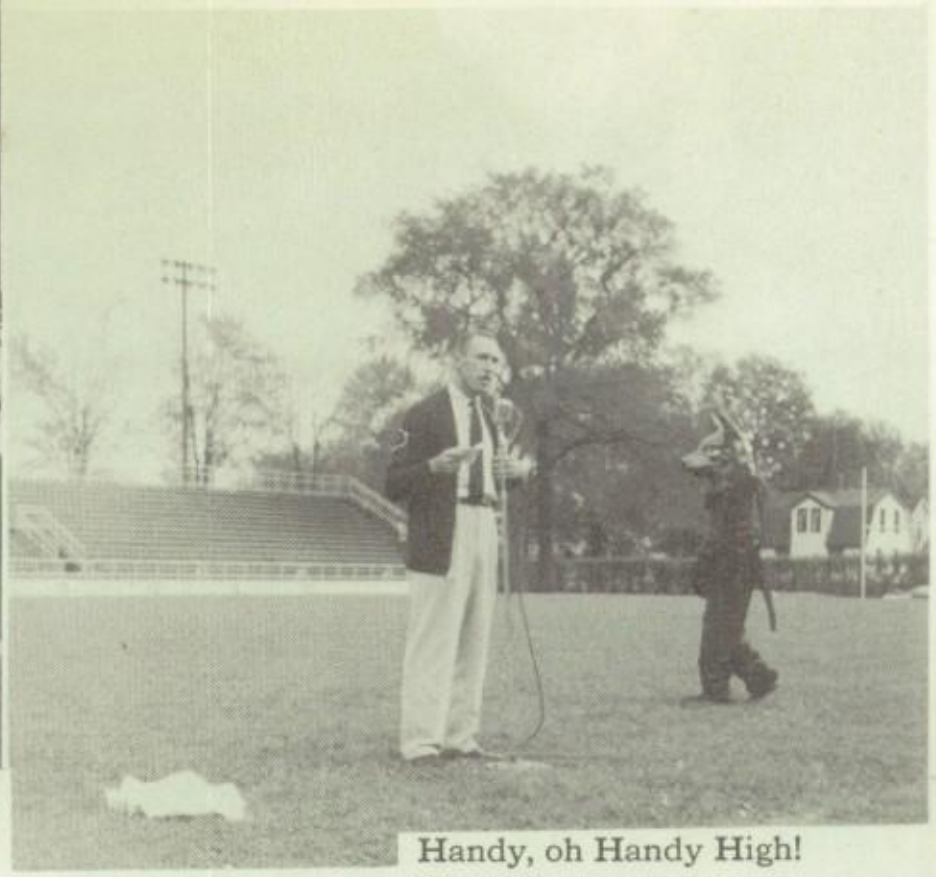
Another epic emerges from the powerful plume of our poet laureate, Mr. Ulrich.



Handy, oh Handy High!
We'd like to win for you;
We'd like to change the purple and gold
To good old black and blue.
Our team we think will have an edge
Since on Handy's field we play
But we could beat them Central bums
On any given day.
Our team is up, our spirits high;
The whole west side will do or die.
And Engel—that poor decrepit soul
Will feel like a bum.
We'll win, we'll win, I know
we'll win,
If only Central doesn't come.

"Look, look! See Spot run and jump!"
